Players now share the workload and no longer have to run the same distance, tackle the same number of times or perform the same type of actions to earn the same shot at goal. FIFA's "Association Master" will also give all teams a disadvantage by reducing the shot power of one player, providing more unpredictability and action on the pitch. FCB's key innovations used in FIFA 22 include:

- Create a "realistic transition system" that changes players' speed, acceleration and direction
- Powered by the "new physics engine," which also powers FIFA 18 on Xbox One
- Play a "full intensity" match with 30 players on the pitch
- "Speed and acceleration" of players now affect the power of shots and goal scoring
- Players now move more like real players on the pitch

Key Features:

- Team AI is now better at anticipating and reacting to your moves, as well as anticipating where you are going and applying pressure accordingly.
- Team moves on and off the ball more naturally.
- Pass accuracy has been improved in multiple ways, including a new "persistence" mechanic that adds to the difficulty of throwing a long ball.
- Tackle animations have been improved, making it more difficult to evade a tackle and increase the force of player collisions. · Passes now look more accurate on screen, moving more like the real world · The ball now “feels” heavier when struck. · New off-ball and on-ball animations · New aerial duels · Stronger tackles and sprint animations · Improved player positioning on the pitch · Improved pitch-awareness, rival pass-blocking and more. New in FIFA 22 “Team Coach” Team coaches have been given a more responsive AI. Now, teams work together in the final third as a whole, instead of each individual player moving in a certain way. “Just like humans, players will now run towards an open player when they see them. Players will also avoid players who are looking for a quick dribble.” “Team Manager” On the sidelines, team managers will now make tactical switches during live
