What's new in Elden Ring:

Follow the plot of the series' main story, "Sword Art Online The Beginning: A Sin" and become an Elden Lord in a new fantasy world. Break into pieces of "Sword Art Online The Lost Canvas: Broken Canvas," a bitmap version of "Sword Art Online The Lost Canvas" released in April 2015, and expand it through the single-player story mode.

The game uses data from "Sword Art Online The Lost Canvas: Broken Canvas" and its subsequent expansion, "Sword Art Online The Lost Canvas: Memories of the Fog."

*Basic game features include: • A large sized game with numerous quests and players • Huge and detailed dungeons with new raid stages added • Cooperative online play for up to 8 people, where you can travel together and develop new relationships *For in-game features, the maximum population of your Server is set at 8. Players who exceed this limit will be unable to progress in the game, and will not receive rewards.

North Carolina State University faculty across the country are voting Tuesday on whether to shut down a university-sponsored hacking lab that has been the target of lengthy protests. Fourteen professors at North Carolina State University say it's time to stop funding the College of Engineering's Threat and Vulnerability Research Lab. The lab's tenure-track faculty, which includes experts in computer security, were angered when the lab, which is still working on some of its research, lost its multimillion-dollar, university-sponsored funding in the wake of the 2013 security breach at Target's retail operations. They say the lab lost its federal grant and other university funding, and suffered staff reductions as a result. "If this is to be the new institutional culture at NC State, then this is not to be the culture of science," said NC State engineering professor David M. S. Jayaraman. Target was hit with a massive malware attack that infected 40 million shoppers in the Thanksgiving shopping season. The FBI eventually identified the hacking suspect, though the culprit has not been formally charged. Related: Top 5 cyberattacks of 2013 The North Carolina General Assembly, in a late effort to save the lab, included $350,000 in a state budget bill for the university in April
